all be free to vote as they please when they meet at Columbus. There is a good deal of wisdom in this. Mr. Brice understands that the last Legislature, or the Legislature preceding it, both of which were largely Republican, idd not discharge their duties to the satisfaction of taxpayers generally. The last Legislature increased the local indebtedness of the State $8,000,000, swelling the total to $95,000,000. Under the force of public opinion the blennial session plan was adopted, so that the Legislature, although elected for two years, held but one session, while taking care to draw pay for two. But had they held a second session it is quite probably eight million or ten million dollars more would have been added to the already enormous volume of local indebtedness.

The State tax in Ohio is only two mills and a half on the dollar, while the local taxes range from twenty io twenty six mills. Owing to hard half on the dollar, while the local taxes range from twenty to twenty-six mills. Owing to hard times taxes are paid with difficulty, and conse-quently there is a great deal of unrest and party lukewarmness.

SENATOR BRICE'S AMBITION.

Mr. Brice proposes to take advantage of all this, hence the concentration of his efforts to carry the Legislature, and he does not regard this as an impossibility. Take Hamilton County as an illustration. This county elects threen members to the General Assembly. There is an independent Republican vote in this county of 7,000. This, withheld from the Republican ticket, would endanger it, or if cast on the opposite side would almost insure its defeat. The Republicans have not made their nominations for the Legislature and will not until September; neither have the Democrats. The Republicans do not think of nominating many, if any, of those who served in the last Legislature and are urged by those who desire the success of the party to select business men who are in touch with the industries of the State and who are in full sympathy with the overburdened taxpayers. This is the kind of a delegation that Mr. Brice is trying to have selected, and if he should succeed and the Republicans fall to meet public expectation, or, more forcibly speaking, public demands, the election of a solid Democratic delegation from Hamilton County would not be a great surprise.

Cuyahoga County corres next to Cincinnati, and there there exists a similar condition of affairs; hence, you will discover the depth and breadth of the shrewdness of the scheme that is being worked by Senator Brice and his surporters. There are a great many "barrels" available in this contest, and Mr. Brice is the owner of but one, while on the Republican side Mr. Bushnell, candidate for Governor, is the only wealthy man it is also surmised that Senator Brice has much higher game in view than the United States Schatorship. It is understood that he does not attach much importance to Senatorial dignty, and he hopes if his party should carry Ohio, and especially the Legislature, he would at once rise to the level of an available candidate for the Presidency. You know those are not very numerous at present, and you know also that the taik of a third term for Mr. Cleveland is the this, hence the concentration of his efforts to carry the Legislature, and he does not regard of an available candidate for the Presidency. You know these are not very numerous at present, and you know also that the taik of a third term for Mr. Cleveland is the merest bosh. Why, then, not Brice for President, or Sorg or Thomas, both millionaires, for the Senate? All this or any part of it would, of course, depend on Democratic success in Ohio in November; hence the incentive to a strong and vigorous campaign on the Democrate side. To what extent the Democrates will succeed to get themselves together can best be judged after they hold their State convention. In pulling themselves together at this time they are not making much headway, but then they have a way sometimes of failing into line that is only known to them and is hardly appreciated by Republicans. only known to t by Republicans.

THE SILVER QUESTION. to the State convention, I predict that or the silver question it will adopt the platform of the last National Democratic Convention, and that it will omit the tail which the Kentucky Democratic Convention added by indorsing Cleveland and Carlisle and their sound money policy, whatever that may mean. If the Democrats in August should get together and decide to pull together, one may look for a very lively campaign in Ohlo, with the prospects, of course, in favor of Republicans, but not with such majorities as in 1893 and 1894.

Indiana holds no State convention this year, and the taik down there centres on the Presidency, and what may happen next year in the contest for the Legislature, which will elect a successor to Senator Voorhees. Of course, General Harrison is the favorite son of Indiana for the Presidency, and he is the favorite in the full sense, and in the honest sense of that term. If his name should be presented for the Presidency, and if he should receive the nomination, he would not decline, and he would be far stronger than he was when he was defeated or than when elected. It would not be safe, therefore, when considering Presidential candidates, to omi, the name of Benjamin Harrison.

Whatever may happen in Ohlo this year, the State will cast its electoral vote in 1897 for the Republican candidate, whoever he may be, but of the last National Democratic Convention, Whatever may happen in Onio this year, inestate will cast its electoral vote in 1897 for the Republican candidate, whoever he may be, but at this time Onio is more united for McKinley than at any former period.

MAY ORDER OUT OHIO COAL MINERS. Canton, Ohio, July 28.-President Ratchford, of the Ohio Miners' Association, will go to Pittsburg to-morrow to consult with the leaders there. He says that if the Western Pennsylvania operators refuse to concede wages of sixty-nine cents and sixty-four cents, with or without the company stores, all the miners in Ohio will be ordered out this week, either by circular or by convention. He says that a successful national strike will certainly follow the failure of the Pittaburg operators to yield now. He maintains that the miners are not bound by any previous agreement.

found. The interpretation of the law regarding the sale of soda-water seems to be still a mat-ter of debate. Some soda fountains were in full dast yesterday and they were not, so far as could be ascertained, molested in any way by the police the other hand, a great many soda fountain were closed, and the proprietors of these stands solemnly said that the police had ordered them to refrain from selling anything. It was the same way with cigar stands. Some were open and others were closed. It may have been voluntary upon the part of the proprietors of stands that were closed but one of them told a Tribune reporter yesterday that he had been ordered to discontinue the sale of cigars.

SALOONS GENERALLY CLOSED.

The saloons over the city were generally closed, and the proprietors of the big uptown hotels observed the law to the letter. The cafes, leather and buffet rooms were thrown open, but no waiters were on hand. There did not seem to be as much grumbling about the enforcement of the law as there has been on previous Sundays. Evidently the citizens are becoming used to it, or else those with bibulous inclinations have found a quiet place where they can satiate their thirst. A guest at the Waldorf Hotel came into the hotel in the afternoon and said:

noon and said:

"I have not been in New-York for over a year until to-day. I had heard something about the Excise law being rigidly enforced, but I did not suppose that it amounted to much. I started out to make a round of the places that I remembered, and I found every one of them closed. I started to come back to the hotel, and was trying to console myself, as I came along by saving that I sole myself as I came along by saying that I didn't want a drink very much any way, and that it would be all right to-morrow, and being a weekday I could get all I wanted. As I was turning the day I could get all I wanted. As I was turning the corner I ran across a part of the Salvation Army and they were singing 'Every Day Will He Sunday By-and-by.' I said that I hope! not. One Sunday in the week under these conditions is plenty.' DRINKING CLUBS IN HOTEL ROOMS.

It was hard upon a stranger within the gates vesterday, but the initiated had no trouble in getting a drink. What might be called impromptu ting a drink. What might be called impromptu clubs are quite the fashion these Sundays. One of these clubs was formed in the corridor of a big hotel uptown yesterday morning. Two men were seated in the corridor talking. Another man walked in and joined them. A fourth came into the hotel in a few moments and sat down with the group. A drink was suggested, but there seemed to be no way of getting it. One of the party who was a guest in the house advised that his room be used. The four took the elevator and in a few moments the electric bell behind the desk began to ring. It kept up intermittently during the day This sort of an arrangement was in vogue at many of the hotels, and the clerks said that the room business had been growing steadily during the last few Sundays.

Right in the Tenderloin, where the police patrol was the most watchful, the law was evaded by several astute liquor-dealers. In some instances, in saloons, the front door was bolted and blinds hrown up to show that the inside was free from suspicion. Even in one of two of these salcons the law was broken. The way in which the thing was worked was the old sidedoor plan. The patron was let in by a door shielded from general view. To be sure, it was not an easy thing to get in. It was necessary that the customer should be necessary. Once within, the seeker after 'hot and rebellious liquors' was led into a back room and his wants supplied. In no instance was any one let in until the coast was clear and then only singly. In this way no crowd was seen going or coming, and naturally suspicion was diverted from the saloon singly. In this way no crowd was seen going or coming, and naturally suspicion was diverted from the saloon. It was said that the citizen spy system was in working order, and that Mr. Abbott had his City Visilance Leaguers out on the watch. This probably accounted for the extra care taken by the saloon-watchers. It was said in some quarters, however, that this system had resulted in a number of arrests where the police were unable to get in, and its extension is said to be assured if the reports to-day show that it is warranted.

Notwithstanding the report of the Police Commissioners that yesterday would be the "driest Sunday" on record, it was not so in the new annexed district. A large number of saloons did a thriving side-door business. This was on account of the small number of police on duty. There were only six mounted policemen to patroi the large territory to look out for the violation of the Excise law. The police, however, made nine excise arrests.

WORK OF THE POLICE.

There were altogether 121 arrests made by the police before 10 o'clock last night. The number shows an increase of eighteen on the arrests made last Sunday, which before 10 o'clock numbered Police Headquarters was descried yesterday, except for the minor officials who do duty there on Sundays and general holidays. Everybody else was out looking after the enforcement of the Excise law. All the four acting inspectors were said to be on pairol duty, each in his own territory, during the day, and at least half the members of the detective bureau were haunting saloon doors in the hope of catching a chance violator of the law. There were only four excise cases at Harlem Court yesterday. Policeman Thomas Kane, of the East Eighty-eighth-st, station, saw people entering P. J. Malone's saloon, at Eighty-second-st, and Second-ave. In the morning, He was in uniform, but he made the attempt to get in, too. He went to the front and side doors, but somebody was on the watch. He then sauntered away, as if having given it up, and watched around the block. He came up by the side of the front door again, and succeeded in getting in while one of the bartenders was moving some chairs in the hallway.

Peter Gerochty, the other bartender, coadless and with his white apron on, was behind the bar, handing out two foamy glasses of beer to two men, when the big policeman loomed up at the door, Gerochty, when he saw him, seized the two mugs, jerked them down behind the bar and soused them into a tub of water. He thought that he had beaten the policeman, but he hadn't. As he jerked the mugs of beer off the bar in the hurry he had beaten the policeman, but he hadn't. As he jerked the mugs of beer off the bar in the hurry he had beaten the policeman done the salone that Acting Captain Dean, of the East Eighty-eighth-st, station, was assaulted while raiding the place three weeks ago.

Policeman John F. O'Connor, of the Church-st, station, arraigned Charles Henninger, a saloon-keeper, of No. 24 Fulton-st, before Magistrate Brann, in the Tombs Police Court, yesterday, on the charge of violating the Excise law.

"I went to his place," said O'Connor, "through the side door at $20 o'clock this morning. Hearinger let out tw

An hour later, in Yorkville Court, Magistrate Simms committed the defendant in $100.

A MINISTER ON A SUNDAY TOUR. MR. DEVINS GATHERED MATERIAL FOR A SER-MON, AND DISCOVERED OFFENDERS AGAINST THE LAW-ALDERMAN TAITS PLACE

REPORTED.

The Rev. John B. Devins, pastor of Hope Presbyterian Chapel, in East Fourth-st., yesterday afcinct. He was going to preach a sermon in the evening on "Why the Excise Law Should Be En-forced," and he wanted to pick up some points re-garding the enforcement in the precinct. He walked up and down Second-ave., First-ave. venue A and Avenue B and the side streets, where there are many saloons. He found that all the saloons were not doing business. He said last night that he had his suspicions regarding some of them, but at any rate they were not openly violating the law. Finally he came to Dry Dock and East Tenth sts. Alderman Tait is the proprietor of a saloon there, and as the pastor watched the family entrance two men came out with a smile that betokened that they were at peace with all the world. One smacked his lips suggestively as they passed the minister and said to his companion; "It saved my life." Mr. Devins withdrew n the shadow of a neighboring doorway, and pres ently the side entrance opened and three men came out. Their lives had also been saved. A policeman came along, tried the door and passed on. man came along, tried the door and passed on.

After they disappeared Mr. Devins made a beeline for the Union Market station-house. There he saw Acting Captain Patrick Cully, In his serhe saw Acting Captain Patrick Cully. In his ser-mon last night Mr. Devins told what he said to the Captain. He told him that the Alderman was doing business. He mentioned the fact that it was the fourth time that he had complained of excise violations lately, and that the next time he com-plained he would "go higher." He said that it was current remor that the Alderman was safe from arrest, but that poor Germans who ran unpretentious saloons dared not open. In making this comparison he said that he did not want it to be understood that he favored the latter keeping open. Two policemen in uniform were immediately sent to the Alderman's saloon, and thereafter the thirsty knew not where to quench their thirst.

From his pupit last evening, Mr. Devins inquired why the Acting Captain had not sent a regiment of soldiers to guard the saloon. He said the Alderman could not be caught napping by uniformed men, after having this fling at the Acting Captain, he Acting Captain, he law in other parts of the precinct. He said that had been a very dy Sunday high! Mr. Devins sent to every saloon-keeper in the neighborhood a printed invitation to be present at the sermon lest night. Here are the reasons that he advanced last night why the law should be enforced; First, because the command to keep the Sabbath for given the cream of the workingman's wages, and the law; third, because the saloon-keeper is should be observed; second, because it is the law; third, because the saloon-keeper should not get the cream of the workingman's wages, and the family the skindmed milk; fourth, because it will be a benefit to sil classes.

STEAMERS CLOSELY WATCHED.

ENITED STATES INSPECTORS HAD NO TROUBLE IN PREVENTING OVERCROWDING ON EXCURSION BOATS.

The number of people who left the city yesterday y the excursion steamboats and ferry lines was conservatively estimated at less than one hun-dred thousand, or about 50 per cent of the number carried on the previous Sunday. This estimate does not include those who sought the coolness and roads. The previous Sunday was an extremely hot and humid day, and the people who left the city crowded boats and cars to the number, it was estimated, of 200,000 to 250,000. A number of acci-dents occurred, and many boats were badly overties had made provision, and inspectors were present at all the piers to see that no boat carried more than her allowance. The work was divided between men from the office of the Collector of ustoms and the United States local Inspectors of Steam Vessels. The Sunday before the crowds, in numerous instances, had broken through all restraint, and, despite steamboat men, policemen and Federal inspectors, got on board vessels, regard-less of the number they were allowed to carry by law. Nothing like that occurred yesterday, at the New-York end, at least, and the inspectors had comparatively easy times.

A few figures of the different lines will give as comparatively easy times.

A few figures of the different lines will give an idea of the small traffic in comparison with other Sundays. The Iron Steamboat Company, which usually carries about thirty thousand people on hot holidays and Sundays, carried yesterday less than fifteen thousand. The new line to Coney Island, styled the Ocean Navigation Company, carried less than five thousand, which is a failing off of 60 per cent. The former line runs six boats, with a total capacity of 3,500, and the latter has three boats, which have a capacity of 2,500 a trip. The Taurus, of the Iron Steamboat Company, running to Long Branch, carried only 1,500 people on her two trips yesterday. The General Stocum and Grand Republic, two of the largest steamboats in the harbor, carried only 2,500 passengers between them, to Rockaway Beach. The Sandy Hook, which made two trips to the Atlantic Highlands, carried less than one thousand, and the St. Johns, which usually has on Sundays a large crowd for an outing up the Hudson, carried only about three hundred and fifty. At nearly all the lines the same report was made—a failing off of aearly 50 per cent from the previous Sunday. The Bay Ridge and Staten Island ferries did a fairly average business. The "barkers" were also saily missed at the Battery, for their numbers seem to have been saily reduced and their volces are neither so loud or vociferous in the land. The war between the Iron Steamboat Company and the new line to Coney Island goes merrily on, with, to all outward appearances, honors even. The steamboat man is hopeful and, although yesterday was a disappointment, he will look forward to a warm, sweltering, roasting Sunday, and a Sunday that will drive perspiring throngs to the seashore by his route.

The highest temperature yesterday was 77 degrees, and the lowest 64 degrees, the average 60 degrees) being 14 degrees less than on the corresponding day last year.

It is expected that to-day will be warmer and fair.

POLISH CHILDREN TOLD A LIE.

The six Polish children, named Cantor, about whose detention at Eilis Island erroneous reports were published yesterday, are still at the island, but will probably be released. They arrived on the American Line steamship Paris, and range in age from five to nineteen years, and as they had only 20 florins in their possession, they were detained. INTO CUSTODY-A UNITED STATES

Berlin, July 28 .- A New-Yorker named Stern was arrested at Kissingen a day or two ago for an alleged insult to Herr von Thungen, Deputy Com-missioner of the Spa. Mr. Stern at once telegraphed to the United States Consul-General at Berlin and the consuls at Nurnberg, Furth and Bamberg for assistance. The consul at Bamberg immediately took a train for Kissengen and requested the release of Stern, but he only succeeded in obtaining it by giving ball in the sum of 4,000 marks and agreeing to the special restrictions imposed upon Stern that he should not leave his hotel, even to drive or promenade.

Mr. Stern has in his possession bank letters to the value of 10,000 lire. He is accompanied by his wife, a fashionable woman, and five children, and is staying at the leading hotel in the place. The guests of the hotels agree in indignantly denouncing the arbitrary action of Herr von Thüngen. It seems that Mr. Stern's son, whom Herr von Thüngen declared too young to be present at a public ball, disobeyed the order and attended. Mr. Stern apploptized to the Deputy Commissioner for the supposed insult offered to his dignity, but Herr von Thüngen refused to accept the apology and had Mr. Stern arrested.

The American visitors at Kissingen intended to demand that the Washington authorities take notice of the matter to the end that Herr von Thüngen may be dismissed. the value of 10,000 lire. He is accompanied by his road from health to sickness is smooth and declines rapidly.

At the first intimation of disease, the wise man takes a pure, simple vegetable toaic. It puts his digestion into good active order and that puts the rest of his body in order. The medicine that will do this is a medicine that is good to take in any trouble of the blood, the digestion, or the respiration, no matter how serious it may have become.

The medicine to take is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is a remarkable remedy. It cures diseases in a perfectly natural way without the use of strong drugs. It cures by helping Nature. It has a peculiar tonic effect on the lining membranes of the stomach and bowels. By putting these membranes into healthy condition, stimulating the secretion of the various digestive juices and furnishing to the blood the proper purifying properties, it reaches out over the whole body and drives disease germs before it into the usual excretory channels. It builds up firm, muscular flesh, makes the skin and the eyes up firm muscular flesh, makes the skin and the eyes

DR. DRURY REMAINED QUIET.

THE BROOKLYN PHYSICIAN GAVE THE TWO ROBBERS A TIME LIMIT.

THEY WOULD HAVE CHLOROFORMED HIM HAD HE NOT PROMISED TO KEEP STILL, AND THAT EXPLAINS THEIR ESCAPE-POLICE THINK

The Brooklyn police are working on several clews and believe that inside of forty-eight hours they will catch the men who so boldly gagged, choked No. 67 Nevins st. on Saturday afternoon at 6 o'clock. The assault was the talk of Brooklyn yesterday and even fair-minded people are beginning to criticise the police for the operations of burglars, thieves and pickpockets, who seem to be doing a rushing business at present.

Or. Drury was early at Police Headquarters yesterday to confer with Inspector Mackellar and Su-perintendent McKelvey. His neck was red and black and blue where his assailant throttled him. A night's rest had also developed sore spots all over him, so that it was with considerable diffi-culty that he walked around. He looked over the photographs in the Rogues' Gallery and what he told Inspectors Mackellar and acclaughlin was regarded by them as too important to be given out.

The doctor went to Highland Beach, N. J., yesterday, to get out of reach of his friends, who kept making inquiries for him all day long. He will be back in town again to-day. He said that he had no hesitation in going to No. 67 Nevins-st. to see the alleged Mr. Schoffeld, for the reason that he alleged Mr. Schoffeld, for the reason that he has one or two patients by that name. doctor says he remained still on the floor for half an hour, through fear that the robbers would return and kill him. They found a chloroform syringe in his pocket and a bright idea seized the red-haired man, as the doctor, bound hand and foot on the floor, was looking at his captors and wondering what they would do next. The red-haired man looked at the syringe and then put a paper over my face and said, 'I'm going to chloroform you,' " said the doctor yesterday, re-

"Well, we've got to have time to get away, and can't take any chances, said he.

"If you won't chloroform me I'll lie still as long as you say.

"For haif an hour? he asked.

"And I promised on honor that I would give no alarm for that long. They said if I moved or gaze an outrry one of them would come back and kill me. That is how it happened," said the doctor, "that they got a half-hour's start. I kept still for twenty or twenty-five minutes before moving, and then went down stairs and the police were informed, as has already been told." Several persons have reported to the police that they saw the two men come out of the house on the State-st, side about 4.30 clock. They turned into Nevans-st, and passed along to Fulton-st.

Detective-Sargaent Reponds found the knife with which the doctor was threatened. It is a common sheath knife, with a six-inch blade.

The house his been vacant for six months. Its last occupant was Mr. Hughes, who owned it. Free-hof, the Fulton-st furrier, bought the place and now owns it. The doctor's watch bore his monogram on one of the cases, and it is doubtful if the theyes pawn the timeplece in a hurry in either city.
